

Senior Construction/Engineering Surveyor

With a collection of exciting projects underway and on the horizon, Fulton Hogan Canterbury needs an experienced Construction/Engineering Surveyor to join us as a team leader. If you want your survey career to include getting out and about and interacting with and supporting our customers and delivery crews, this is just the job for you.

Fulton Hogan Canterbury is a regional business unit of Fulton Hogan, with over 700 staff based in Hornby. We provide the complete range of road and civil construction services, including road construction, drainage, site works and earthworks.

As a Senior Construction/Engineering Surveyor, you will:

- Lead the survey process for various projects – methodology, setting out, design issue solving
- Support and provide guidance for our emerging talent
- Build and develop new & existing customer relationships
- Drive technological innovation in the business
 - Maximise what we can achieve with our existing machine control and UAV tools
 - Challenge how technology can help us do things better

Experience and qualifications:

- Sound knowledge and experience of survey methodology and tools
- Proven ability to engage with delivery teams and customers
- Familiar with Trimble and AutoCad Civil 3D equipment & software

This is a key position in the business, with a commensurate package on offer, including a company vehicle. Fulton Hogan strives to be a great place to work, with a great team environment, ongoing training and professional development, and subsidised medical insurance after a qualifying period.

If you are a pro-active team player looking for a role in which to develop your career both personally and professionally, then apply now!

For a confidential chat about the role please get in touch with Christina on 03 336 5141.

To apply for this role please do so by emailing Christina.walford@fultonhogan.com.